

Values in Action: Inspiring Change

On 8 April 2025, the second Values Education (VE) learning hub event, 'Values in Action: Inspiring Change' took place, bringing together primary teachers to explore the different ways to incorporate VE into the English lessons. The event was designed to empower educators with effective strategies and resources for fostering positive values and attitudes among students. They gained practical insights into effective strategies for incorporating VE both within and beyond the classroom.

School Sharing

Presenters from four different schools shared insightful perspectives and activities on how they incorporated different values, namely gratitude and responsibility, filial piety, respect for others, and law-abidingness, in their English lessons.

Participants enjoyed observing how various schools incorporated VE through the whole-school approach, modules and units, lessons, extracurricular activities, and morning assemblies. Some expressed interest in adopting similar approaches at their own schools in the upcoming academic year.

Building a Learning Community

The Values Education learning hub events this year were a resounding success, providing teachers with new ideas, strategies, and a renewed sense of purpose in integrating values into their teaching.

The events exemplified the essence of a learning community — an intentionally supportive environment that promotes individual and collective learning. Ongoing interaction and collaboration among educators are vital as they strive towards common educational goals.

We look forward to building a stronger learning community by sharing best practices and enhancing collaboration among educators in order to foster students' proper values and attitudes through the learning and teaching of English next year.

Teachers engaged in thoughtful dialogue to explore new approaches to inspire their students.

Reflective discussions among teachers promoted collaboration and enhanced professional growth.
