

Predict

Predicting helps me think about what might happen. I use what I already know to help me predict before and during the reading.

I wonder what is going to happen?

I need to look for clues.

I already know that everyone wants to eat the Gingerbread Man and I think the fox will save him .

I think the Gingerbread Man may become good friends with the fox, when the fox saves him from the others.

Good readers keep making predictions, check them and may change them as they read.
